| 4 | 115255 | To Whom It May Concern, I am writing to inform you regarding the morning show of Nida Yasir. On January 5th 2021, a very inappropriate episode of this television show was aired on ARY. Nida Yasir called a celebrity mom with her son (the episode is titled with Nirma Ali and Areej Mohiuddin as guests on youtube). They played a pathetic game with them which apparently went by the name "Bahu number 1" where the mother had to choose one girl for her son and reject the other two based on their qualities. This was extremely derogatory and ill-intended. Such content should be monitored and banned from national television. I am writing to you today because I would like the assurance that this type of content will never appear on any channel again. It should be taken seriously! I greatly look forward to hearing your response, and I hope that national television can be made safer and more appropriate for everyone. Sincerely, , email | ARY Digital |

| 42 | 115217 | Peace be upon those who follow guidance I tried sending this message to Pemra weeks ago yet still have not received any reply or acknowledgement. I'm resending this in case there was an error last time. This is a very serious matter- do not take it lightly. Inqillah Subject: Fake "Quran" quotes on Hum Masala channel Asalamu alaykum, I've been watching food programmes on Hum Masala channel (also known as "Masala TV") and noticed that during Ramadan ad breaks, they were broadcasting various quotes, some they claimed were from Quran, some they claimed were from Hadith. I noticed some of the quotes that they claimed were "Quran" were unfamiliar and nothing like what I've read in Quran so did an online search on Quran to double check, only to find that these quotes are NOT from Quran. I also asked people I know with knowledge of Quran to double check including an alima and she also confirmed this. They broadcast quotes on Hum Masala beginning with the words "Quran me Allah ka irshad hai" but the quotes are not from the Quran and are not from Allah. So far I've managed to find 3 fake quotes but wouldn't be surprised if there are more. Usually these quotes were broadcast during the ad break of "Ramadan around the world" which was on at midday in the UK (where I live). I sent two messages to the Masala TV facebook page during Ramadan (after spotting the first fake quote) but never received any acknowledgement or response and even after that they continued broadcasting more fake quotes. I would've contacted you earlier but only just found out your contact details. With this email, I am attaching images of the fake quotes as proof. Please let me know what will be done about this. At the very least the channel should broadcast a public apology and correction. There is a hadith which translates as "he who lies about the Prophet (Muhammad SAW) should take his seat in hellfire"- if that is the seriousness of lying about the Prophet, just think of the seriousness of lying about Allah (swt). This is not a small matter and the channel's blatant disregard of deen, of accuracy, of integrity and accountability is disgusting. Please keep me informed as to what will be done about this. Thank you | Hum-2 |

| 46 | 115256 | complaint regarding Samaa TV Murree brewery advertisement Salam, I am writing to express my surprise and disgust of the airing of the Murree Brewery advertisement on Samaa tv. The promotion of prohibited substances on national Pakistani television is shameful in an Islamic country. I am actually a viewer born and raised in the United States and was disappointed to see this. Please stop them from airing advertisements promoting haram substances on national television. Attached is a picture of the ad on my TV. I was only able to take one picture from the whole advertisement, which also features a bottle of alcohol being opened in high definition slow motion. These types of advertisements send a bad message to the youth, who may not at first initially understand that this is an alcohol advertisement. Thank you, , email | Samaa TV |
